

Verbose and Loquacious Proverbs 2

Can you translate these verbose and loquacious proverbs into the common statements of wisdom that we all know and love?

1. Members of an avian species of identical plumage congregate.
2. Neophyte's serendipity.
3. Where there are visible vapors in ignited carbonaceous materials, there is conflagration.
4. The temperature of the aqueous content of an unremittingly ogled culinary vessel does not reach 212 degrees.
5. Missiles of ligneous or petrous consistency have the potential of fracturing my osseous structure, but appellations will remain sempiternally innocuous.
6. Exclusive dedication to necessitous chores without interludes of hedonistic diversion renders John a hebetudinous fellow.
7. Male cadavers are incapable of yielding testimony.
8. Individuals who make their abode in vitreous edifices would be advised to refrain from catapulting projectiles.
9. All articles that coruscate with resplendence are not truly auriferous.

Answers responses, solutions, retorts

1. Birds of a feather should stick together.
2. Beginners luck.
3. Where theirs smoke theres fire.
4. A watched pot never boils.
5. Sticks and stones will hurt my bones but words will never hurt me.
6. All work and no lay make John a dull boy.
7. Dead men tell no tales
8. People who live in glass houses should not throw stones
9. All that glitters is not gold.